Seafood businesses that need to be licensed

Under the Food Regulation 2015, food businesses must have a NSW Food Authority licence if they distribute, handle, process or store seafood as defined under Clause 133 of the Seafood Safety Scheme (Part 11 of the Regulation) and defined as a "seafood business" under Clause 134 and perform the following activities:

- the handling of fin fish, crustacean or cephalopod after it is taken or caught, whether the handling occurs on board a vessel or otherwise;
- the processing of seafood, including (but not limited to) skinning, gill and gutting, filleting, shucking, cooking, smoking, preserving and canning;
- the packaging of seafood;
- the storage of seafood;
- the transportation of seafood except the transportation of seafood from retail premises to the consumer or in a vehicle from which the seafood will be sold by retail. If licensing is required for a vehicle to transport seafood please complete application form Application for food transport business for dairy/meat/plant products/seafood; and
- the wholesaling of seafood.

For the purposes of this Regulation a seafood business does not include:

- the act of taking or catching fin fish, crustacean or cephalopod;
- the handling of live lobsters, crayfish, abalone, crabs or sea urchins; and
- the retail sale of seafood.

Licensing under this Regulation is used to ensure that a business has the capacity to produce safe food before the food is supplied to the market. A licence is not transferable from one person or business to another.

What do I need to comply with?

Any businesses that hold a licence must comply with the following:

- Food Regulation 2015 (NSW);
- Food Act 2003 (NSW);
- Food Standards Code; as well as
- Development and implementation of an adequate food safety program under the Food Regulation 2015 based on Standard 3.2.1 of the Food Standards Code or Codex HACCP. The program must accurately outline the hazards associated with the food business' operations. Assistance material is available from the NSW Food Authority's web site at www.foodauthority.nsw.gov.au

What do I need to do next?

- Complete the licence application form and return it with payment to: NSW Food Authority, PO Box 232, Taree NSW 2430.
- You must not commence operations until the above steps have been completed and you are informed that your licence application has been processed. If the premises are found to be operating without a licence, enforcement action will be taken.
- Prior to the approval of a licence, a licensing assessment will be carried out to ensure compliance with the Food Standards Code and Food Regulation 2015. PAYMENT INFORMATION

The Food Regulation 2015 prescribes the appropriate licence fee (based on the number of full time equivalent (FTE) food handlers conduction food handling activities at the premises) and application fee to be applied to all licences.

Note: The number of FTE food handlers employed in your seafood processing/storage operation as determined by the calculation below excluding office staff, delivery drivers etc.

CALCULATING LICENCE FEES

The licence fee applied to your business is calculated based on the number of full time equivalent (FTE) food handlers involved in food handling. The number of FTE food handlers is used as it also accommodates businesses who use part time food handlers in their operations. For the purposes of this calculation, a FTE working week is 38 hours.

To calculate the number of FTE food handlers your business has, add up all the hours that the food handlers are undertaking food handling activities during a working week and divide by 38 hours (average working week). For example, if a facility had 4 food handlers to handle food for 25 hours per week, this would equate to approximately 3 FTE food handlers.

$$\frac{4 \text{ food handlers} \times 25 \text{ hours per week}}{38 \text{ hours}} = 2.6 \text{ FTE food handlers (round up to 3 FTE food handlers)}$$

The fee to accompany this application form is the total of both the application fee and licence fee, as follows:
